

ARMY DEMOBILIZATION SLOWED DOWN

TRUMAN TALK
EXPECTED TO BRING ACTIONEARLY ATTENTION TO STRIKES
SEEN

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) termed some of President Truman's legislative program "communist" and "left wing" tonight and said "congress ought to get credit for a little delay."

That was part of his answer to the president's bid last night for more action and less talk in congress on measures Mr. Truman recommended.

Taft, chairman of the senate Republican "steering" committee, made his remarks in an address prepared for broadcast over the NBC from Cincinnati.

Not Democratic

"To summarize," he said, "the Truman program has been delayed because it is superficial and ill considered, because it is a CIO-PAC program and not a democratic program, because it adopts a philosophy with which the people do not agree."

The president had appealed to the people to spur congress on strike control and other legislation. He contended congress had fallen down on the job of passing laws to handle domestic problems that threatened economic disaster.

Taft said the measure Mr. Truman proposed, which would halt strikes while fact-finding boards look into labor disputes, was hastily drawn and contained no principles of any kind. He added: "One thing is certain. The president's bill will not prevent strikes, and no one has found a way to prevent strikes, except Mr. Stalin. If you can only prevent strikes by a general plan of compulsory wage arbitration, which leads inevitably to a government fixing of wages and prices, then I am not in favor of prohibiting strikes."

Party Divided
Taft said the Democratic party was hopelessly split between those who follow the CIO-Political Action Committee program on every issue and those who think progress must be made within the American system of constitutional government and free enterprise.

He had this to say about some of the measures the chief executive had singled out for special attention last night:

More pay for the unemployed.
The president wants to "federalize" unemployment compensation and "give left wing labor control of employment."

"While the president denounced inflation, he is promoting the greatest peacetime inflation this country has ever seen, first by lavish spending of government money, and second by promoting a general increase in wages and salaries. All the price control in the world can't hold prices against those policies."

Draft Hangs On

The senator remarked, too, that the chief executive had not waited for the opening of congress to comply with the constitutional requirement that he report to it on the state of the union.

By opposing any declaration by congress of the end of hostilities, Taft said, the president was hanging on to power and a continued draft of men for military service. Mr. Truman, he asserted, apparently opposed labor legislation with teeth in it. While the fact-finding plan for checking strikes would prohibit them during a cooling-off period, he said,

Victory Loan Brings
$21,144,000,000 Total
Treasury Reports

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—The Victory Loan brought $21,144,000,000 into the treasury's tills, Secretary Vinson announced tonight.

In announcing the final figures for the eighth and last war loan, Vinson disclosed that every state made its E-bond quota and that the national sales, in all categories, were far above quotas.

Vinson announced these final figures:

Total sales: $21,144,000,000 or 192 per cent of the $11,000,000,000 goal.
Sales to individuals: $6,776,000,000 or 169 per cent of the $4,000,000,000 quota.
Sales of E-bonds: $2,204,000,000 or 110 per cent of the $2,000,000,000 quota.

JAP CABINET
PURGE LIKELYMacArthur's Directive
Also Hits Most Of Diet Members

Tokyo, Jan. 4 (AP)—Premier Shidehara today summoned his cabinet to an emergency session tomorrow to consider General MacArthur's orders to purge the government of all who helped lead Japan to war.

Kyodo news agency, quoting "informed quarters," declared the orders would affect all members of the cabinet save Shidehara, Foreign Minister Shigeru Yoshida—once jailed for criticizing the emperor—and Dr. Chujo Iwata, minister of justice.

"This practically means all members of the present Diet will not be able to run in the coming election," the agency quoted a member of the influential Progressive party as asserting.

The directive caught the Japanese cabinet in session but without the premier, who was home with a cold.

The cabinet went ahead and announced that the budget would be balanced for 1946 for the first time since 1930.

Meanwhile, MacArthur invited 30 prominent United States educators to come to Japan to help the Japanese revise and base their educational system on more democratic principles.

Violence Flares
Up In Strike Of Western Electric

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Disorders resulting in injury to four persons and arrest of several others today at two New Jersey plants of the Western Electric Company marked the second day of a two-state strike by 17,200 union employees.

The walkout, begun yesterday by the Independent Western Electric Employees Association to back demands for a 30 per cent wage increase, halted manufacture of telephone equipment at 21 Western Electric plants in New York and New Jersey.

A new effort to settle the strike was made today by U. S. Conciliation Service Commissioner Jacob R. Mandelbaum, who was allowed through the picket lines to see Frank J. Hammel, industrial relations director.

All Counties Pass
Victory Loan Quota

Detroit, Jan. 4 (AP)—All Michigan counties over-subscribed their Victory Loan quotas to put the state $161,202,791 over its $329,000,000 goal, Frank N. Isbey, Michigan war finance committee chairman, reported today.

Sales totaled $490,202,791, broken down into $274,098,482 to corporations, $95,223,386 to "E" bond buyers and $120,880,923 to other purchasers.

State quotas were $168,000,000 for corporations and $161,000,000 for individuals.

Terming the Oct. 29 to Dec. 31 drive "the most amazing record we have ever made," Isbey said he wanted to thank those who helped in the campaign for "welding the people together in a common cause."

Detroit, Jan. 4 (AP)—George F. Adles, secretary-treasurer of the CIO United Automobile Workers, will be called to testify Monday in a $250,000 damage suit brought by Arthur N. O'Brien of Monroe, against Ford Local 600, UAW-CIO and former local officers.

O'Brien charges his health was impaired and he was forced to quit his job at the Ford Motor Co. when he was convicted by a local court of offenses against the union and suspended for seven weeks in 1943.

NAVY SCOUTED FOR JAPS BUT
IN WRONG WAYPEARL HARBOR QUIZ GETS REPORT BY KNOX

BY J. W. DAVIS

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—The Pearl Harbor committee heard today that the navy did scout for Japanese attackers on the day they came—but in the wrong direction.

It also received a claim that a naval officer predicted the surprise blow in detail months before it fell.

A long-secret report from the 1941 secretary of the navy, Frank Knox, to President Roosevelt supplied the first information the senate-house investigating committee had had that there was air reconnaissance the morning the Japanese struck, Dec. 7, 1941.

Pursued Wrong Way
This same report showed that warships surviving the raid pursued the retiring Japanese task force in the same wrong direction; southward instead of northward.

Knox said without detail that naval forces in Hawaii had reason to expect an attack from that quarter.

The claim of having predicted the surprise attack was made by Captain E. M. Zacharias. It reached the committee in the form of a memorandum from Zacharias to Admiral Milo F. Draelm on March 17, 1942.

Zacharias said he made his forecast in the preceding summer to Curtis P. Munson, whom he described as "believed to be a presidential agent" with credentials from Admiral Harold R. Stark, then chief of naval operations.

Stark told the committee today he couldn't remember Munson, or his mission.

Zacharias' memo thus told of his talk with Munson:

"After outlining to him my firm conviction that if Japan decided to go to war with us it would open by an air attack on Pearl Harbor, on a week-end and probably Sunday morning, with all the reasons therefor, and then I stated, 'You now have two (Japanese) envoys in Washington. When the third one arrives you can look for it to break immediately, one way or the other.' This envoy arrived in Washington about December 2, 1941."

Expected Comeback

Knox told the president that days after the Dec. 7, 1941 attack, Pearl Harbor expected the highly successful Japanese to come back soon. He recited indications that "appeared to foreshadow a renewal of the Japanese attack, probably with landing forces."

Some of the major points in the report included:

1. "The navy morning patrol was sent out at dawn (Dec. 7) to the southward, where the commander-in-chief had reason to suspect an attack might come. This patrol consisted of 10 patrol bombers who made no contact with enemy craft."

The carrier force which brought the Japanese bombers and torpedo bombers actually came from the north.

2. One of the reasons the Japanese were expected to return was that their deadly accurate attack spared oil storage tanks, which conceivably they could use if they landed.

3. After the attack was over, the Japanese apparently slipped some ships to the southward of Pearl Harbor and there imitated radio call letters of the carrier force which was then slipping away to the north.

Mrs. Mansfeldt Gets

Slaying Of Nurse

San Francisco, Jan. 4 (AP)—Judge Edward P. Murphy sentenced Mrs. Irene Mansfeldt to from one to ten years in prison today, shortly after a jury returned a verdict that the 45-year-old society matron was sane when she shot to death a nurse she suspected of having an affair with her physician husband.

Mrs. Mansfeldt had been convicted of manslaughter in an earlier trial by the same jury.

Prosecutor Norman Elkington said that if Mrs. Mansfeldt receives full credits for good behavior, she will be eligible for parole after spending a year and a half in prison.

General Shutdown
In Meat Threatens,
Government To Act

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—The CIO's scheduled strike in packing houses threatened tonight to develop into a general meat shutdown involving AFL workers too, but the government met some early success in efforts to start conciliation meetings.

Even as the conciliation plans went forward, top officials debated in two emergency meetings what policy the government should follow to keep meat moving to American tables.

A proposal for a retail meat price increase to meet higher labor costs was voiced by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, who was in Raleigh, N. C., but the Office of Stabilization Administration here said it had not received such a recommendation from him.

Officials admitted they were thoroughly alarmed at the prospect of 200,000 CIO United Packinghouse Workers walking out on Jan. 16 as scheduled in support of demands for a 25-cent hourly wage increase. Their anxiety was heightened by an unexpected AFL move to join in the work stoppage.

International officers of the AFL Amalgamated Meat Cutters Union said they will recommend that their members go out along with CIO unless packing companies better their wage offers.

Such a move would involve an estimated total of 335,000 in coast-to-coast walkouts.

Conciliation Director Edgar L. Warren disclosed that plans were progressing for meetings between the CIO union and the "big four" packing companies — Swift, Armour, Cudahy and Wilson — in Chicago Jan. 9, 10 and 11.

Physicians at St. Francis hospital reported that none of the persons injured were in a serious condition, but that Mrs. Marshall would remain there for treatment. Others returned to their homes last night. All suffered bruises and lacerations.

The accident occurred at 3:40 p. m. Police reported that the car driven by Marshall, going south on Washington avenue, was on the left side of the pavement when it collided head-on with a pickup truck driven by Mrs. Martin Koush-bough of Nahma, who was accompanied by her husband. In the Marshall car were Mrs. Marshall, McCauley Hart, and James Smith, also of Gladstone.

A car driven by Donald Wolf of 323 North 20th street, following the pickup truck, skidded into the rear of the truck following the collision. Stephen Fredo of 1223 Sheridan Road was an occupant of the Wolf car.

The third accident occurred about a half block from the intersection when a car driven by Mrs. George Menck of Ferndale, accompanied by her mother, brought her car to a halt as she approached the accident scene. Her car was struck in the rear by a car driven by Mrs. Vital Elie of 1517 North 18th street.

U. S. DEMANDS
CONVICTION OF
GERMAN STAFFPRUSSIAN GENERALS ARE BRANDED AS CRIMINALS

BY JAMES F. KING

Nuernberg, Germany, Jan. 4 (AP)—Striking against the Prussian military hierarchy, the United States today demanded the conviction as war criminals of the whole German high command and general staff on the grounds that they were just as guilty as Hitler and the Nazi party.

The broad denunciation brushed aside suggestions that the generals merely were professional soldiers, and was accompanied by a mass of documents, most of them aimed at convicting the generals with their own words.

Col. Telford Taylor, of Chevy Chase, Md., American deputy prosecutor and former counsel for the Federal Communications Commission, laid before the international tribunal trying 22 Nazis evidence that the ranking German generals and admirals were thinking of war even before Hitler assumed power.

War "Sacred Duty"

The prosecution submitted an affidavit by Field Marshal Werner von Blomberg, former German war minister, declaring that he and the whole group of German staff officers regarded a war to wipe out the Polish corridor and to lessen the threat to separated East Prussia as a "sacred duty though a sad necessity."

The American attack on the generals came in the face of caution reportedly previously urged by the British and even some American army officers, and after the noticeable lack of enthusiasm among the other powers when the indictment originally was drafted.

Taylor stressed that the United States recognized the honorable place of the professional soldier, but charged that the German high command used itself for "diplomatic bullying," and that it conspired and planned to prepare the initiative and wage illegal war.

Taylor said that the prosecution saw nothing criminal in the preparation of war plans against actual conflicts, but that "we will show the defendants agreed with the Nazi objectives," they participated gladly.

LAKE ST. CLAIR
TO BE DRAGGEDCoastguards Hunt Small
Plane Which Plunged
Into Icy Waters

Detroit, Jan. 4 (AP)—Coastguardsmen said tonight that Lake St. Clair will be dragged tomorrow, ice conditions permitting, in an effort to recover a small airplane reported to have plunged into its icy waters Wednesday afternoon.

Meanwhile, no word has been received from Raymond Wheeler, 29, of White Lake, and his wife, Helen, who relatives said began a three-day trip in Wheeler's two-seated plane Wednesday.

Mrs. Walter Peasley of Milford, Wheeler's sister, said that the couple took off from their White Lake farm at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday. Wheeler, signed in at the Toledo, O., national airport at 2:15 p. m. and left a short time later for Findlay, O., but his plane was unreported there.

Mrs. Peasley and her mother, Mrs. Robert Ravencrest, of White Lake, became alarmed when they read newspaper accounts of a plane plunging into the lake and asked authorities to trace Wheeler's craft. Both the Oakland county sheriff's office and Civil Aeronautics Authority are investigating.

Commander A. F. Glaza of the Coast Guard said a survey is being made of the crash area, one mile south of the Grosbe Pointe Yacht club and that if the deather permits small boats will be sent out to drag the lake tomorrow. The icebreaker Acadia also is being used in the search.

Wheeler's plane was described as a black and yellow two-seater with the registration number NC-19293.

Tanning Factory
Splits Up $73,000
For 600 Employees

Rockford, Jan. 4 (AP)—Plans for distributing $73,000 under a profit-sharing plan were announced here Friday by Victor W. Krause, president of the Wolverine Shoe and Tanning Corporation.

A pioneer in profit sharing, Krause said $1,500,000 has been divided by employees as their share of the company's profits since inception of the present company plan in 1919.

Krause said nearly 600 workers are qualified to benefit by the approaching distribution of profits. He added that employees can, if they wish, invest their payments in company stock.

Through this method of stock purchase, he reported, some 350 employees have become shareholders in the company.

Wolverine Shoe and Tanning Corporation operates two shoe factories here and glove factories at Greenville, Howard City and Big Rapids.

UNRRA WANTS
MORGAN OUSTEDHas Been Serving As Its
Chief Of Operations
In Germany

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—UNRRA asked today for the resignation of British Lt. Gen. Sir Frederick Morgan, its chief of operations in Germany, for publicly expressing belief that a "worldwide Jewish conspiratorial movement" is behind the exodus of European Jews into the American occupation zone.

In Hoechst, Germany, Morgan denied that he had resigned and added that "I see no reason why I should," but he would not confirm or deny that he had received a cabled request to get out.

Officials here said they were mistaken last night in reporting that he had voluntarily quit.

The formal announcement of the ouster movement, issued here, said it grew from Morgan's news conference in Frankfurt Wednesday, at which it said "issues outside the scope of UNRRA" had been raised. It added that the relief agency dissociated itself completely from the views expressed then.

Washington officials of UNRRA said the decision to ask Morgan to step out was made in London by another British lieutenant general, Sir Humphrey Gale, director of the European regional office. Gale will pick up the new German operations head.

At the Wednesday meeting with reporters, Morgan mentioned apparently "well fed" Jews moving into the American zone and said the movement seemed part of a "well organized, positive plan to get out of Europe." He suggested a link between the movement of Jews and the Palestine immigration issue.

Marie Antoinette
Necklace Donated
To U. Of Michigan

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 4 (AP)—An amethyst, emerald and pearl necklace said to have belonged to Marie Antoinette was accepted today by the board of regents of the University of Michigan in addition to cash gifts totalling $165,255.

Largest sum was $75,000 donated by the Jessie G. M. Clapp Trust of Cleveland, O., in memory of the late James B. Angell, president of the university from 1871 to 1909.

The necklace was presented to the school by Isabel Stearns of Worcester, N. Y., who purchased it in France about 1904. Dr. Frank E. Robbins, assistant to the president, said its value and the time and place of its exhibition would not be revealed now for "security reasons."

Zakerski was recovering from two broken legs suffered Dec. 27 in an escape attempt. He was captured three and a half hours later and taken to receiving hospital.

Convicted Dec. 21, Zakerski was awaiting sentence when he made the attempt. Arrested 24 times since 1932, he has been convicted of four felonies since Feb. 11, 1933.

NEED TROOPS
FOR OVERSEAS
ASSIGNMENTSRATE OF DISCHARGE
TOO RAPID FOR REPLACEMENT

BY EDWARD E. BOMAR

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—The Army today slowed down the return of soldiers from overseas.

The action may cause a delay up to three months in the home coming of a soldier on foreign service eligible for discharge. The priority in which troops will be returned, however, is unchanged.

Lt. Gen. Joseph Lawton Collins explained that voluntary enlistments and the draft had failed to supply enough replacements.

"Our overseas forces would be dangerously under-strength in occupying hostile countries if all eligible men were to be returned before sufficient replacements had arrived," he told a news conference.

Under the revised program, approximately 1,553,000 men will be shipped home during the next six months, whereas three months would suffice were all available shipping used. The rate will be cut from the current 300,000 or more monthly to about 300,000 a month.

Collins, army director of information, said that in no case "should this delay any man in the theaters more than three months beyond the time he became eligible for discharge."

Strength Reduced

Collins also disclosed that the planned strength of the army for next July 1 now was 1,550,000, a reduction of about 400,000 from estimates made last September.

The War Department also announced that some 600 war brides and other dependents of American soldiers would be brought to the United States in January, mostly from England and the continent. By July some 50,000 more will be brought from England, 10,000 from the continent and 6,000 from the Pacific.

No date has been set for any large-scale dispatch overseas of families of American soldiers serving abroad.

In announcing the reduced demobilization rate, Collins forecast the discharge score for February would be lowered less than five points, which has been the amount of recent monthly reductions. The score now is 50 for enlisted men.

He told reporters it "looked doubtful" that the army would be able to return to their homes in March the last of the soldiers who have served overseas two years. General George C. Marshall as Chief of Staff had expressed hope that this could be done.

Michigan Soldiers
Killed In Accident

Knoxville, Iowa, Jan. 4 (AP)—George Rayl, 25, of Dearborn, Mich., and John Westrick, 18, of Grosbe Pointe, Mich., both soldiers, were killed today when a car and truck collided six miles west of here.

Truck driver Forrest C. Hoover told Sheriff Jim Van Hemert that when he saw an automobile coming toward him he cut off on the highway shoulder, but the car struck the corner of the truck. Hoover was uninjured. The highway was icy.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 4 (AP)—Federal Judge Thomas F. Meaney fined the National Wholesale Druggists Association and 23 of its member companies a total of $87,000 on anti-trust charges today.

The fines were imposed after the defendants changed their pleas of innocent to no contest to a government indictment charging them with conspiracy to violate the Sherman Anti-Trust Act by fixing wholesalers' margins of profits on drug products.

The indictment against the Association, its 23 member companies and the 29 officers and agents was returned Nov. 10, 1941.

Fines imposed on the defendants included Hazelton & Perkins Drug Co., Grand Rapids, Mich., $4,500.

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Vice Admiral Emory S. Land will retire as chairman of the maritime commission and war shipping administrator on Jan. 15 to become president of the Air Transport Association.

The White House announced today that President Truman has accepted Land's resignation "with the utmost reluctance." At the same time that ATA, an organization of the nation's commercial airlines, said Land should assume its presidency.

Industry officials who could not be named reported last week that Admiral William F. Halsey, war-time commander of the Third Fleet, is slated to succeed Land as head of the maritime commission.

Strike Called Off At Western Union

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—AFL telegraphers today called off Monday's threatened strike of 50,000 Western Union employees and agreed to accept a government-recommended wage increase averaging 12 cents an hour.

W. L. Allen, president of the AFL - Commercial Telegraphers Union, disclosed that each would receive about $500 in retroactive pay. The decision was handed down Monday by the War Labor Board. Today's decision by the AFL does not affect the threatened strike of 7,000 CIO telegraphers in Western Union's New York area. These are slated to walk out Tuesday in protest against the same War Labor Board decision.

TRUMAN TALK EXPECTED TO BRING ACTION

it imposed no penalty.

Senator Ellender (D-La.), author of a bill covering the president's proposal to bar strikes while law-backed fact finding boards look into disputes, said at his home in Houma, La., that the senate labor committee would take the matter up as soon as congress reconvened Jan. 14. House labor committee hearings were adjourned over the holidays.

Mr. Truman, in his half hour radio address last night, placed at the top of his "must" list the enactment of the fact-finding bill. He asked also for public pressure in behalf of other measures in his program on which he said Congress had been "distressingly slow".

Party Lines Broken

Reaction was varied and didn't follow party lines.

AFL President William Green restated his opposition to the fact-finding law. He described it as a "cure worse than the disease."

Senator Capehart (R-Ind.) said such a law would let another bureaucrat "poke his nose into the books of every corporation in the United States."

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D Colo.) took the position that Congress should have acted on fact-finding before going home for Christmas but that the president now should use his war powers to stop strikes until the legislators do something.

One Republican, Senator Young of North Dakota, said at Bismarck he considered Mr. Truman "justified" in criticizing Congress. He said the president "gave a good analysis of much of congress' trouble" and that "it is practically impossible to get important bills through the way things are now."

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican whip, called Mr. Truman's address "an abject apology by the president for the failure of the administration's domestic policy, which now admittedly is as much confused as is its

Union Claims GM Wanted To Put In Forty-Hour Week

Detroit, Jan. 4 (AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers charged tonight that General Motors Corp. planned a post-war 40-hour work week, but later decided to press for a 45-hour week as a means of evading union wage increase demands.

In an address prepared for radio delivery, Victor Reuther, director of the UAW-CIO's full employment division and a brother of Vice President Walter P. Reuther, said the company's proposal for an extended work week was "a means of evading the demands of its employees for a 30 per cent wage increase."

Reviewing the 45-day strike of 175,000 GM production workers, Victor Reuther quoted from a letter he said was written by Harry W. Anderson, GM vice president, to Walter Reuther Aug. 31.

In it, the speaker said, was the following statement:

"On civilian production we expect to call employees back on the 40 hour per week basis as rapidly as materials and facilities permit. Second and third shifts will be added where needed."

Six days later, Victor Reuther asserted, GM President C. E. Wilson proposed the longer work week as a solution to the union's demand for maintenance of wartime take-home pay.

"The corporation's action is purely and simply a trick maneuver to evade fair and serious consideration of the legitimate demands of its employees," Reuther added.

General Motors spokesmen withheld any immediate comment on Reuther's address.

Bad Taste Hunted In Alma Water By Manager Beauvais

Alma, Mich., Jan. 4 (AP)—While scores of families here started importing drinking water, the state board of health has undertaken further tests to find out the source of an offensive taste in water drawn from city wells.

City Manager P. B. Beauvais thinks he has found the cause for the water's bad taste in a well drilled last year. It has been shut off pending the new tests.

With industries here requiring a steadily increasing water supply, the city commission has ordered the drilling of test wells to locate additional water sources.

DAIRY PROGRAM ON HERE TODAY

Educational Displays,
Speeches Scheduled
At Coliseum

An educational program of value to dairymen, and emphasizing the importance of the dairy industry in Delta county, will open at 10 o'clock this morning at the Coliseum in Escanaba. The Chamber of Commerce, with E. A. Wenner, county agent, cooperating, is sponsor of the first mid-winter Delta county Dairy Day.

Special invitations have been extended to county dairy farmers and their wives, and to county business men to attend the program. Free sandwiches and coffee will be served at the Coliseum at noon.

Starting at 10 o'clock there will be a review and discussion. Exhibits to be discussed will be: Calf raising, feeding, pastures, breeding and management, herd management, 4-H Club dairy work, quality milk production, mastitis control, better bulls, cooling tanks, and model grain elevators.

In the afternoon, starting at 1 o'clock and continuing until 4, there will be a demonstration of equipment washing by George S. McIntyre of Chatham, Dr. C. M. Harrison of Michigan State College will speak on "Good Dairy Pasture," and a sound moving picture in color on "The Science of Dairy Production" will be presented.

One of the local features of the program will be a demonstration on rope making, presented by Llewellyn and Gloria Larson, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Larson of Danforth. Llewellyn is a former 4-H Club leader in his community and recently received his honorable discharge from military service.

The displays are an outstanding part of the program, and have been arranged with the cooperation of the State Department of Agriculture, the breed association, and the American Dairy association.

Trident Division Liquidated Ruhr

By NEA Service
Originally slated for the war in the Pacific, the men of the 97th (Trident) Infantry Division went instead, through the exigencies of the war, to the European theater.

The 97th landed in France where, after being held in reserve for several weeks, it was assigned to the Fifteenth Army. Later, the Trident was shifted to the First Army and thrown into the battle near Dusseldorf, designed to liquidate Germans trapped in the Ruhr pocket.

Then the 97th was shifted to Bonn, at the southern end of the pocket along the Rhine. On April 3, the division crossed the Rhine, went into action along the Sieg river, captured several German towns, including Siegburg, and then was shifted back to the Dusseldorf area, to close the pocket from the south.

In final mopping-up operations in this sector, the Trident doughs took many thousand prisoners.

Moved again, the 97th was put under General Patton in the Third Army, and committed to action near the town of Hof. The division remained in the fighting for five weeks, moving up into Czechoslovakia with the Third Army.

Near the Czechoslovakian city of Luditz, patrols of the division met up with elements of the Russian army.

WANT STEAM PLANT
Sault Ste. Marie—Irvin D. MacLachlan post No. 3 of the American Legion has suggested to Mayor Maurice E. Hunt that the city "investigate the advisability of erecting a modern steam plant" as a source of electrical energy.

The Legion, in a resolution adopted December 28, and mailed to Mayor Hunt yesterday pointed out that the step should be considered to promote employment, the development and growth of the city and "counties adjacent thereto—Luce, Mackinac and Schoolcraft."

Garber Did Not Accept New Job

Marquette, Mich.—Stephen L. Garber, general manager of public works and utilities here for the last 26 months, told The Mining Journal yesterday there was no truth in the report he had accepted a position as city manager of Long Beach, New York.

Garber, who returned to Marquette late Wednesday night after several days' absence from the city, said: "I have not accepted the position at Long Beach and there is no foundation for the report that I did accept it. I was in the east on business and was asked to go to Long Beach for an interview with officials of that city. I went there, but did not accept the position. I am back here and am on the job."

Garber, who left Marquette a week ago today, yesterday explained to Mayor James J. Beckman and other members of the city commission what transpired on his trip and told them he had not accepted the Long Beach job. The day it was reported here that he had accepted it Mayor Beckman received a 'phone call from the Long Beach mayor, who inquired about Garber's salary, duties and experience in Marquette and intimated Garber was being considered for appointment to the position.

Gold Mining Co. Equipment Sold

Marquette—Sale of machinery and equipment at the gold mining property in Ely township formerly operated by the Michigan Gold Mining company to J. J. Gray, Toronto, Canada, was authorized by Judge Frank A. Bell yesterday in the special January term of circuit court.

Not operated since 1937, the mine was operated by the Michigan company on a royalty basis under arrangement with the Michigan Quartz and Silicate company, owner of the land. President of the latter firm is Edward Copps, Milwaukee, Wis.

After two years' operation the company failed, was reorganized and then went into receivership. J. E. Hayden, Ishpeming, was appointed receiver by Judge Bell in 1943.

Under terms of the decision, Hayden is "authorized to sell and convey all remaining said assets in place to J. J. Gray, Toronto, Canada, on receipt of $6,787.50, and the receiver is authorized to execute all bills of sale and such other papers as may be necessary to effectuate conveyance."

Presumably the equipment, which includes a hoist, gold mining machinery, compressor, laboratory paraphernalia and machinery in a shaft house and mill, will be moved to Canada by the purchaser.

At least $71,000,000 is being collected in America to finance the Catholic and Protestant churches and missions of Europe and Asia.

Lt. Marvin Coon Jr. Is Awarded Medal

Lieut. Marvin L. Coon, Jr., USNR of Escanaba, has been awarded the Bronze Star medal and the Commendation Ribbon for action against the enemy in the Philippine Islands and Okinawa campaigns.

As executive officer and navigator of the USS Pickering during operations against Bataan and Corregidor, February 13-16, 1945, he was commended as follows:

"By his skillful navigation through unswayed waters, Lieutenant Coon enabled his ship to direct accurate and destructive fire on enemy shore installations. His untiring efforts were of material value in the success of this operation. For his conduct throughout he is commended and authorized to wear the Commendation Ribbon."

The citation was signed by Admiral Kincaid, Commander Seventh fleet.

Served As Evaluator
He received the Bronze Star for "meritorious achievement in connection with operations against the enemy while serving as evaluator on board the USS Pickering during their invasion of Okinawa Gunto, March 26 to May 26, 1945."

"His exceptional navigational ability and accurate evaluation of enemy plane tactics materially contributed to the preservation of his ship."

"His assistance in directing the ship's fire in support of our ground forces contributed to the early destruction of many enemy troops and fortifications, and his organization and leadership while under a prolonged period of operation were particularly outstanding."

"His initiative and devotion to duty were in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service."

The award was made in the name of the President by Rear Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, commander of destroyers, U. S. Pacific Fleet.

Lieutenant Coon is the son of Commander Marvin L. Coon, USNR, of Escanaba, former warden of the Marquette prison and a veteran of both World Wars. In World War I he was awarded the Navy Cross for action against the enemy off the coast of France.

ATTENDS NAZI TRIAL
Iron Mountain—Capt. William J. Cochran, son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Cochran, of this city, and now serving with the Transportation Corps in Germany, added another interesting experience to his overseas service when he attended a session of the famous war-crimes trial of 22 top Nazis in the Palace of Justice at Nuernberg, Germany, according to a letter to his parents. He enclosed a clipping from the Stars and Stripes, overseas Army publication, describing the trial-session which he attended.

Border Regulations For Tourists To Be Discussed Feb. 5-6

Marquette—The acute problem of providing facilities for housing the tourist traveler and the possible simplification of customs and immigration regulations affecting those crossing the border between the United States and Canada will be important matters for consideration at the first regular meeting of the newly organized Northern Great Lakes Area Council, to be held at North Bay, Ont., February 5 and 6, it was announced here today by George E. Bishop, president of the council.

The whole problem of transportation to and within the area of the council, comprising the states of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota and the Province of Ontario will be under discussion.

It will be the first meeting of the council to be held in Ontario, organizational and other preliminary meetings having been held in the three states.

At the same time and place the annual meeting of the Northern Outfitters Association will be held with the pageantry of a week-long winter sports program holding high interest for the delegates to the council meeting.

Special sleeper service for the members of the council from the states will be provided in Ontario with the train leaving Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., on February 4 for North Bay. The Canadian Sault Board of Trade and the Algoma Travel Bureau will form a reception committee at Sault, Ontario.

The size of the problems to be considered in the future was emphasized by President Bishop, who pointed out that in the territory represented by the council there are a total of 611,000 square miles with a population of 13,500,000. He pointed out that the Province of Ontario alone is three and a half times the size of the British Isles.

"In the early meetings of the council," Bishop said, "there has been a splendid effort by council members to become area conscious and well informed as to the problems of the area as a whole."

North Range Makes Test At Book Mine

Negaunee—The "Book mine" of the North Range Mining company will be an underground producing property in 1946, developments for hoisting having been completed during the latter part of 1945. Hoisting on a small scale started in the closing weeks of 1945 and is being continued.

North Range also is carrying out mine development operations in Minnesota, where tests are being made on the Pokegama, an undeveloped property near Grand Rapids.

The North Range operates mining properties in Michigan and Minnesota, including the Blueberry mine, seven miles west of Ishpeming, at which the major development at present is the new 16th haulage level of the mine. This will be the main haulage level. The mine was explored by the Ford Motor company and opened by shaft in 1926. The first shipment of ore was made there in 1929.

The commendation read—Dec. 22, 1945.

"All hands are due a 'Well Done' on the fire quarters and the prompt control of the fire in starboard five inch rocket and handling number 9A 203M. HELP FARMERS ON INCOME TAX

Wenner Names Advisors

Filing Returns

E. A. Wenner, Delta county agricultural agent, yesterday named a list of 19 rural residents who will assist and advise farmers in making out their income tax reports.

The final income tax returns must be filed by Jan. 15, and farmers who are in doubt concerning certain matters in connection with the reports are advised that it would probably be more convenient for them to make the final return and not bother with the estimate. Information need for the estimate is the same as that required for the final report.

Those who have offered to assist Delta county farmers in the various communities are as follows:

Rock—George Weingartner, Elmer Lepisto, Sulo Pellola, manager of Rock Co-op store.
Ensign—Harold Gustafson.

New Lure Book To Be Ready By April

Marquette—Faith in the future of the Upper Peninsula's tourist and resort industry has led to unprecedented support of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau's 1946 Lure Book, it was announced at Bureau offices here today.

The 1946 edition, with new cover design, new pictures and new copy, is shaping up rapidly, with forms scheduled to be closed on February 1. It is expected that the first copies will be ready for distribution April 1. The number of pages has been increased from 124 last year to from 136 to 140 pages for the forthcoming issue.

Last year the Bureau ran short of Lure Books despite printing 50,000. As a result decision has been reached to increase the number of copies in 1946 to 60,000.

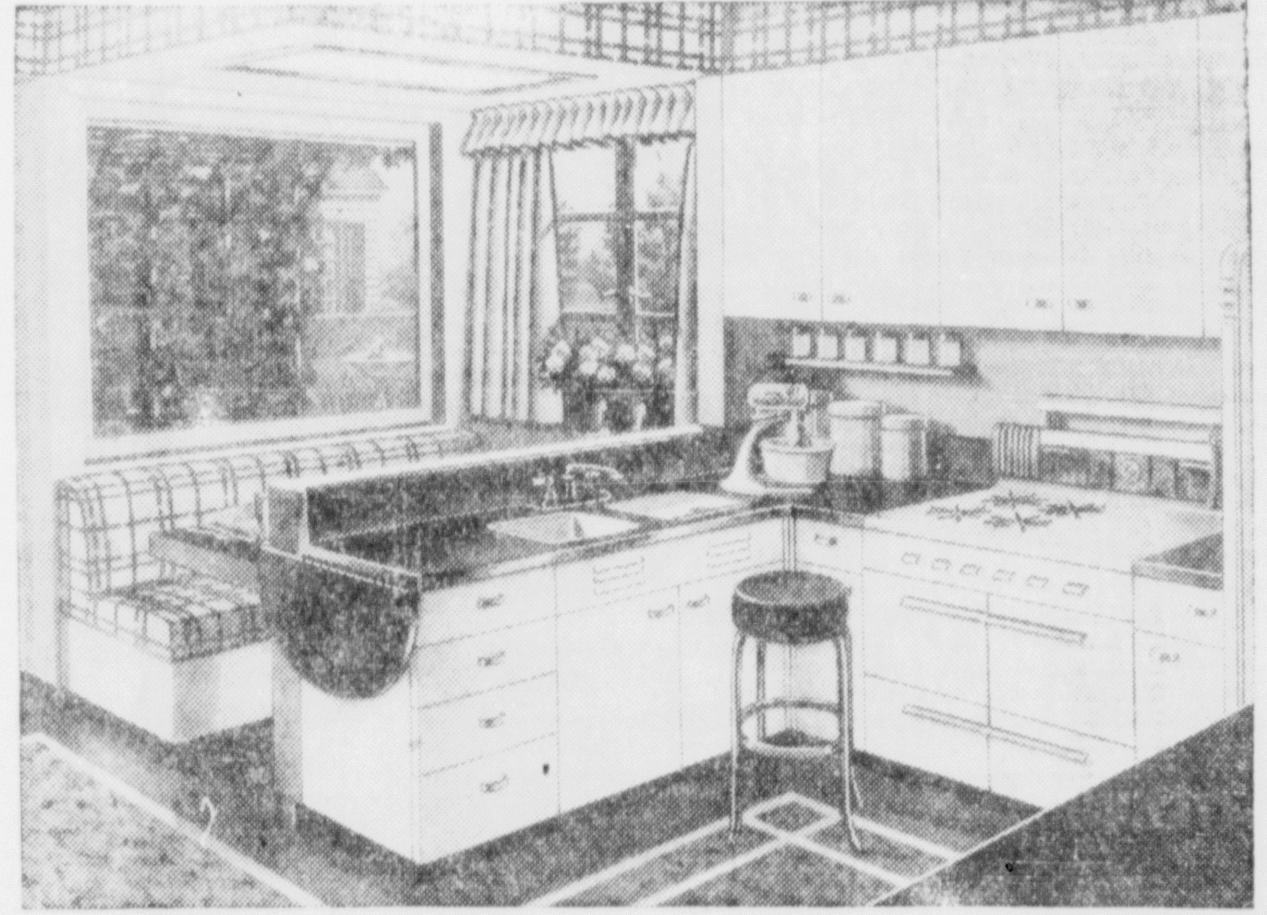

In commenting on the work of preparing the Lure Book, George E. Bishop, secretary-manager of the Development Bureau said:

"We can attribute the increased support for the Lure Book only to the abiding faith of our people in the future of the tourist and resort business in the Upper Peninsula. In some countries the support has doubled. In some cases advertisers who withdrew during the war period, have come back and in others old advertisers have doubled the size of space purchased."

Honeymoon Is Over

PRESIDENT TRUMAN apparently vowed to get along with Congress when he became the occupant of the White House. There was every expectation that he would fare better than his predecessor, since Truman had been a member of the senate and enjoyed the warm friendship of his colleagues.

So, President Truman tried to cultivate Congress, and won the praise and compliments of its members. But, it turned out to be a one-sided affair, for while the congressmen were speaking kind words for the chief executive they were giving him little of the legislative cooperation he desired. Inaction had set in on Capitol Hill, and it has been long obvious that the nation has been drifting aimlessly in its domestic policy.

American industry, eager to get busy on the postwar job of supplying much-needed goods to eager consumers, has been seriously hindered by labor difficulties. The lack of leadership in Washington in this crucial period has been clearly apparent.

Sensing that the domestic situation is growing worse every day, President Truman went on the air Thursday night to appeal to the American people to exert pressure on Congress to enact strike-control legislation and other measures to avert threatened economic "disaster." He charged Congress with hampering the administration's program for guiding the nation safely through the troubled postwar era.

President Truman apparently realized that he could not get anywhere by being nice to Congress. He decided to get tough. The reaction of Congress to his charges and demands will be awaited with keen interest.

Need Was Shown

PRIE ceilings were restored on oranges, grapefruit and lemons yesterday by the Office of Price Administration after a disappointing experience with the removal of control the past few weeks.

As soon as the restrictions were suspended on November 19, prices of citrus fruits zoomed upward. Oranges were selling in Detroit for a dollar a dozen, and similar gouging of consumers was reported in other cities.

The cost of living has increased since the end of the war, instead of receding as many folks expected. Obviously, there is as much need for price control until stock of consumer goods are increased to adequately meet the public demand.

The clamor for increased wages, resulting in strikes and other labor disputes, is in many instances prompted by the rise in the prices of consumer goods. But prosperity will not come by merely engaging in a mad scramble to raise prices and wages. It can come only through the production of more goods, an objective that certainly cannot be achieved by idleness in industry.

It's An Ill Wind, Etc.

THE wind that fanned the flames that destroyed the plant of the Delta Furniture company this week was an ill one, of course, but fortunately it did not force the community's new industry out of existence permanently.

Arrangements have been made by the Delta Furniture company to occupy the city-owned Steele-Wallace building, and since there is more space available there than at Wells there is the expectation that the industry will employ more persons than previously.

Development of new industries in a community is not an easy matter. There are always obstacles to overcome. At the present time, shortages of building materials present a difficult problem, but in time this also will be solved. Success always comes to those who refuse to quit or become discouraged.

The New Immigrants

THE steps which President Truman has taken to reopen this country to European immigrants as speedily as possible reveal a warm and ready sympathy much to be admired. His action in waiving the necessity of re-entry for the 1000 refugees in relocation camps here is sensible. His insistence that orphans and the most destitute will assure help where help is most needed.

But the President's directives, for all the generosity that inspired them, will have to be carried out with intelligent care. For one thing, the adult newcomer must be impressed with the almost unbelievable fact that life in unscarred, well-fed America is not as idyllic as it must appear from the vantage point of a Europe that is cold, hungry, war-wrecked and dispirited.

Not that America will not be infinitely better. But the newcomer will discover, unless he has friends to take him in, that he has arrived in a country where living space is at a premium. In the larger cities of the East, where the immigrant will first find himself, there are tens and hundreds and sometimes thousands of families seeking permanent housing for every dwelling that becomes available.

The newcomer will find unemployment now and the prospect of more to come. He will find, even though he may have superior qualifications, that such things as seniority and previous inclinations and commitments may close to him all but mental, low-paying jobs.

And the newcomer will discover resentment. Without debating whether that resentment is right or wrong, selfish or simply realistic, it is apparent.

The newcomer will find it hard to answer if someone says to him, "We cannot help you find a house or job until we have taken care of those who helped to liberate you and your country, those to whom we both are so greatly indebted."

A monthly immigration of some 4000 persons theoretically puts no strain on this great nation. But when those 4000 are concentrated in a few crowded localities, as they may be, competing with Americans for non-existent houses and scarce jobs, the situation could be exaggerated out of all numerical proportion.

Many Americans unfortunately are prejudiced against foreigners generally and newly-arrived foreign refugees in particular. And, again unfortunately, many refugees feel a bitterness toward the Americans who have suffered so little while they themselves have suffered so much. Both these feelings could be exaggerated by a hastily planned or ill-considered reopening of immigration, with serious consequences.

The whole program calls for intelligence, tact, and mutual respect, understanding and good will.

OPA MUST SHARE RESPONSIBILITY

(Ironwood Globe)

Years of industrial peace on the Gogebic range, maintained throughout the war years, ended with the calling of a strike by the timber workers' union against the Moosinee Paper Mills Co. at camps south of Wakefield.

It is not a large strike, as such things go these days when labor disputes generally involve thousands and hundreds of thousands of individuals, but it is no less unfortunate.

Regardless of the points at issue in the strike just called, there is no doubt that in the long standing controversy between the timber workers and several lumber companies, the OPA ceiling price on lumber has been a factor.

There also is no question that lumber production is declining, unfortunately at a time when there is great need for it in getting started on filling the nation's tremendous needs for new housing.

There seems to be merit to one lumberman's contention that there is not enough margin between the OPA ceiling price of $28 a thousand feet on unsorted hemlock logs and the OPA ceiling of $40 a thousand feet on hemlock construction lumber. If this is the situation, the OPA must share the responsibility for the decline in lumber production and the attendant disputes.

The OPA doubtless takes the position that it is charged with "holding the line" against inflation. It is true that no one wants inflation—at least not any more than we now have—but it also is true that policies which curtail production are obstructing reconversion to a peacetime economy.

The Gogebic range has been fortunate in being free from labor disputes which plagued many other sections of the country before, during, and since the war. The reason, we believe, was the patriotism of range residents and the determination of labor and management to let nothing interfere with the production of raw materials so vital to the war effort.

If labor, management and government—which has come to be directly involved in all wage armistice negotiations—would approach the problems of peace in the same spirit that was evident during the war, the nation's change from war to peace will be smoothed and everyone will benefit.

AGAIN SCHEDULE

For some time this modest column has tried to put down the widespread error of saying "SKEH-joo-ull" for "schedule." I have pointed out that "SKEH-joo-ull" results from falsely associating "schedule" with such -ual words as, "gradual, actual, annual." I have emphasized that schedule has but two syllables, thus: SKEH-jool.

My transcription "SKEH-jool" causes some disagreement among a few readers who tell me that the dictionary does not show a "j" sound in the second syllable of "schedule"—that the word is shown as "sked-ul," with a long "u" (SKED-yool). The pronunciation listed in Merriam

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—As the old year ended, almost all automobile production was stopped by strikes and parts shortages. Instead of the predicted half million units, the industry in 1945 produced about 75,000 cars.

Reports out of Detroit indicate that in the first month of the new year production will be under 100,000 units as compared to an estimated 300,000.

The immediate reason, of course, is the stalemate in the strike of the United Auto Workers against General Motors. It is now in its seventh week and there is no indication that any end is in sight.

In fact, the prospect is bleaker than it was two weeks ago. In the face of what seems to be a hopeless impasse, the time has come, it seems to me, to ask certain fundamental questions.

—EMPLOYS MANY PERSONS—
In the statement issued by General Motors as the company walked out on President Truman's fact-finding board, there was no indication of any acceptance of the process of collective bargaining. That statement read like a thinly-veiled attack on unions as such.

If not the largest employer in the country, GM certainly is one of the three or four largest. During the peak of war production the company had a half million employees. Operating full scale today, GM would have 300,000 to 400,000 men and women on the payroll.

This, therefore, is no ordinary business. It directly involves the welfare of more than a million human beings. In view of its vast scope and in view of the fact that the way the strike is ended may set a precedent for all industry, it is pertinent to ask this question:

Do the executives of General Motors believe in the process of collective bargaining as carried on through independent unions of the workers own choosing?

In the light of all that has happened since 1933—the National Labor Relations Act and the succession of supreme court decisions upholding the right of collective bargaining—this question might seem to be superfluous. But among union members and even in public opinion generally the suspicion is beginning to grow that this is a fight to break the power of the unions.

—MERRITT IS SPOKESMAN—

That suspicion has heightened among unionists when GM brought in as its spokesman Walter Gordon Merritt, a New York lawyer who, beginning with the Danbury Hatters case, has engaged in incessant warfare against trade unions. As in the Danbury Hatters case when the unions were utterly smashed, Merritt has frequently turned the weapon of the anti-trust laws against organized labor.

General Motors in its statement says it "refuses to subscribe to what it believes will ultimately come, through the process of evolution, the death of the American system of competitive enterprise. This raises a fundamental question for the union:

Do the leaders of the United Auto Workers believe in the system of free enterprise for profit?

In the reply that the UAW made to GM there was, implied at least, an answer to this question. It was also an indication that the strike could be settled on more reasonable terms than the 30 per cent raise. In their statement the UAW said: "But the General Motors workers, who have already sacrificed so much in this strike, will not accept less than the 30 per cent increase in wage rates needed to maintain take-home pay, except and to the extent that the economic facts may show that General Motors cannot pay that increase without increasing prices to the consumers."

In other words if it can be shown that a pay raise of 30 per cent will mean a rise in the price of cars, the union will accept less. This is a recognition of the terms of private enterprise even though at the same time it insists on the right of labor and to have access to the basic facts.

The public is entitled to know what the real issues in this quarrel. If it is collective bargaining in the American sense then we can hope eventually for a settlement. In this connection reports persist that an important faction within GM is ready to offer an 18 per cent increase which would be acceptable to the union.

But if this is a showdown fight to break one side or the other, then the public should know it. For the outcome concerns not just one company and one union but all of us.

Webster's does appear to be "sked-ul." But if the reader will look a little closer, he will see a small curved mark below and connecting the "d" and "u". This curved mark is the sign of palatalization; or, in simpler words, it indicates the "j" sound as in ordure (AWR-jer), soldier (SOLE-jer), and the "ch" sound as in feature (FEE-cher), picture (PIK-cher), nature (NAY-cher), which, says Webster's, "is the natural pronunciation in general use by unaffected speakers in all the common words."

Some dictionaries do not use the confusing mark (the bar). Funk and Wagnalls and Thorndyke Century, for example, show picture as "pik-cher," feature as "fe-cher," virtue as "vur-chu," and note this carefully, schedule as "skej-ul," with short "e" (eh) and long "oo" (as in "pool").

Therefore, the transcription in Colby Phonetic Spelling, thus: SKEH-jool, is in accordance with dictionary consensus, and accurately indicates the correct pronunciation "in use by unaffected speakers," etc. I may add that no dictionary lists "sked-ul" as a three-syllable word ("SKEH-joo-ull").

This Isn't Helping Mama's Headache Any

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

OLD AND NEW—During most of January, 1946, folks will do a lot of erasing. At the tops of letters, reports and bookkeeping ledgers they will write the year as 1945, and will then erase the old year and over the smudge write 1946.

One thing motorists and pedestrians should not erase from their memories are the traffic fatality figures for the past year. They are in total well over the number of fatalities for the year in World War II, and should be a reminder for caution on the highways during 1946.

In Delta county alone there were 9 traffic deaths last year. One of these was in Escanaba, two were in Gladstone, and six were in the county. The year before the total traffic deaths was 6.

It may sound strange, but people need to learn caution in walking as well as in driving. Of the 9 traffic deaths in 1945, five were pedestrians and four were motorists. Which means that it is just a trifle more dangerous to walk on streets and highways than it is to drive on them.

TEACHERS VS. TAVERNS—One of our secret agents, reporting on the general subject of "Generosity," believes the following figures should be given publicity:

School Teachers—$375.
Taverns—$285.

This, the agent reports, is a revealing commentary on generosity. For the figures are those from the record of receipts for the city of Escanaba to the Victory Fund and Community Chest drive which ended recently. From the fund the Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Salvation Army, Cod Liver Oil fund, USO and other organizations were to be financed for the coming year. Perhaps the teachers are closer to the community picture, know the value of the work these organizations do.

Incidentally, there are 55 establishments selling alcoholic beverages in Escanaba. The average contribution for each of the places would be about $5. The average contribution of the 92 teachers in the city was $4.

CLOTHES FOR A FLYER—If you found there was a clothing shortage during the war and wondered why, Lt. William Stegath of Escanaba, now home on terminal leave from the Air Force, would be able to answer your question. While flying in Italy against German targets, the flyers wore: Long woollies, flying coveralls (with candy bars and a tooth brush tucked in the pockets), an electric flying suit (built like your electric hot pad at home), a Mae West life preserver, and in a duffle bag carried a parachute, flask suit, helmet and other equipment weighing 35 pounds.

At high altitudes in the bombers the crew slipped on oxygen masks that covered the mouth and nose. "Those masks were instruments of torture," says Lt. Stegath. "Every time I put one on I was dying for a cigarette two minutes afterward, my nose itched—and I couldn't scratch it."

GARDEN HOBBY—Louis Waukasin, general manager of the new Dearfree company which has started the production of furniture in its plant at Wells, came here recently from Oshkosh, where a branch of the company was formerly located.

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1936

During the year 1935 four persons lost their lives in traffic accidents in the city of Escanaba, according to figures compiled by the Escanaba Safety Council.

Following a holiday visit with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Carlton, Richard Carlton is returning today to Urbana, Ill., where he is a student at the University of Illinois.

Manistique—A total of 113 couples—an all-time high—applied for marriage applications in Schoolcraft county during 1935.

Gladstone—The following: students have returned to Albion, Mich., where they attend Albion college after spending the holidays at their respective homes: Donald Tumath, Harry Kirchner, James Reynolds, William Frank, James Damitz, William Cargo, James Rouman and Howard Mathison.

20 Years Ago—1926
Machinery in the plant of the Steele-Wallace company will be within the next week or ten days to turn out wooden butter dishes and toothpicks. It was made known yesterday by L. G. Sawdy, general manager.

Birth records at Manistique for the year 1925 indicate the same rate of population increase as in 1924. According to James Christensen, city clerk, the total number of births recorded in this city for the past year was 144, which is exactly the same total reported in 1924.

Gladstone—Miss Wilma Mathison returned Sunday night to Ann Arbor after a holiday visit at her home here.

Looking forward to summertime, Kaukasian is making a local survey to determine where he will establish a flower and vegetable garden. For gardening is his hobby. He is middle-aged but energetic and paunchless, likes to get up at 4 a. m. to swing a hoe at weeds and admire the budding calendula. He did this at Oshkosh and he expects to do the same here.

His interest in vegetables extends past the production stage, and he likes to see how they cook as well as look. Typical of his enthusiasm in this direction was the time he had scores of Oshkosh citizens bent over the stove stirring kettles of home-made catsup.

The catsup epidemic started when Waukasin began experimenting to find a "just right" catsup recipe. He had bushels of tomatoes in his garden. He pored through stacks of cook books, tried dozens of recipes until he found one that just suited his taste—a tangy, "hot" blend that made a good sauce for meats and shrimp cocktail. The recipe was so popular everybody started making catsup.

"Trouble with most catsup is that it is thickened with corn starch, which spoils any flavor it might have," says the Dearfree manager.

HE LIKES CANOEING—Tom Ginsberg, assistant manager at Dearfree, is also a hobbyist. But he likes to hold a canoe paddle instead of a hoe, explore rivers instead of recipes.

Ginsberg also comes to Escanaba from Oshkosh. His canoeing experience includes trips to lakes and rivers on the Canadian border in Northern Minnesota.

Next summer, therefore, local folks can expect to see Ginsberg paddling a canoe on the bay and river, while on shore Waukasin and his catsup bubble with enthusiasm. Incidentally, Ginsberg says the trouble with most amateur canoeists is that they purchase canoes which are too small. The bigger ones are safer.

OF GENERAL INTEREST

Q. Which President was sometimes called the "Canal Boy" and why was he so named?

A. James A. Garfield was sometimes called the "Canal Boy" because of his early employment on a canal boat.

Q. Can you give a description of Barracks Ships; what they are used for, size, tonnage, etc.?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—If the general staff in Washington read the thousands of letters which pour in on congressmen and this columnist from G. I. Joes everywhere, undoubtedly a broad-gauged man like General al Eisenhower would move to rectify some of the things which are destroying morale in the army.

The G. I. of course doesn't write to General Eisenhower or the war department, first because he figures his letter wouldn't be read, and second, if it was read, he would only get into trouble. However, here is some recommended reading for the general staff in the Pentagon building—a cross-section of letters recently received by this columnist. The note of discouragement, frustration and bitterness is not unusual. Unfortunately it runs through practically all the letters, and indicates that something vitally wrong at the bottom must be cleaned up before building a large new peacetime military structure.

An air force officer in the Pacific sent this columnist an air medal ribbon with one oak leaf cluster. With it he enclosed a newspaper clipping telling how General Barney Giles had awarded air medals to Lieut. Gen. Robert C. Richardson Jr. and Maj. Gen. Clark L. Ruffner for "numerous long-distance flights over water under extremely hazardous weather conditions."

The officer's letter read: "Here is an article about the awarding of an air medal to one 'old school tie' by another. Just another case of the W. P. P. A. taking care of its own. W. P. P. A. means West Point Protective Association."

"Enclosed you will also find a couple of air medals I won while playing tag with some Jap flak over the Jap fleet some time back. You should see the back end of General Richardson's plane! Ice box, bunks, plush seats and all the rest of the best. Tough life he had sleeping over those long ranges—is hours of 'over-water flying'."

A lieutenant colonel who forwarded the above letter wrote: "I was associated with this fellow for a year, two thirds of that being spent on Iwo Jima. His feelings represent the general opinion of practically all reserve officers who were in battle. Any more-than-ordinary action of a West Point graduate called for unusual attention and awards. My pride in being a reserve officer on active duty prior to Pearl Harbor took a number of eye-opening jolts on Iwo and I expect to resign by commission as a lieutenant colonel six months after my terminal leave expires."

—PHILIPPINES BLACK MARKET—

A soldier in Manila: "I ran across your column reporting on black market activities in the Philippines. The article is true—but, for your information, has the army explained to you how these goods get into the black market? I'll name some of the ways. Being a 'yellow ball outfit' truck driver, I can explain some of it.

"Hi-jacking is on a large scale here. There isn't one night that passes that some of our trucks are not hi-jacked. We have no control whatsoever over it. We pick up the cargo on the docks, get checked out and we're on our own. On certain supplies, M. P. guards are supplied—mostly Filipino guards. Can these guards be trusted? Most of us drivers say no.

"Our trucks are hi-jacked—drivers shot—or are mysteriously gone—no one knows where. Many a time the Filipino guards bring the truck back with no drivers. When asked what's happened, they 'don't know.' Why should they know? Probably they're members of the ring. Our M. P.'s are too busy chasing violators on speeding.

"The speed limit is 20 and 25 miles per hour. If a driver is carrying valuable cargo and no guard, he has to figure how to get to his destination without getting hi-jacked and yet remain within the speed limit. Going along at 20 M.P.H., a child of 10 years could hop on a truck and dump the cargo off without the driver knowing it. So we lose both ways. Slow traveling—lose your cargo. Fast traveling—get a ticket, a summary court-martial and, if you hold a rank, drop a grade or two. That's the army rule in Manila.

"When we first came into the army, we were taught how to handle firearms, protect ourselves, etc. Then why don't the army give side-arms to the truck drivers to protect themselves and their cargo? The war is over now and thank God we're alive and in good health. So why should we protect army goods and vehicles and stand the chance of getting killed?

"What's happened to these drivers that have mysteriously disappeared or been shot? Does the army print it in the state papers? Or in our daily papers here? Or the Manila papers? No, they don't.

"We ask for protection, and we get Filipino guards. We ask for side-arms. Nothing doing. We refuse to drive—no court-martial. We speed at night to stop being pilfered—we get a ticket and the results are busted in rank and a court-martial.

"Is this what we fought for? Is this democracy? If it is—I'll vote Socialist and so will 1,000 other yellow ball base drivers when and if we do get home."

Barmaids are being weeded out in Chicago because customers pay more attention to them than to drinks. The belles ring but the cash registers don't.

Vacuum cleaners are coming back on the market—and if Mom answers the doorbell it's her own fault.

A New York man drew 30 days in jail for turning in a false alarm. Guess who's burning now!

Long Shorts Are Newest

Veterans Ask For
Etiquette Courses

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer
There is something a little sad about it—those veterans attending a midwestern college who have asked for a course in etiquette which is to be taught them by the school's dean of women.
A short time ago they were in a world where etiquette didn't matter—where you were either a right sort of guy or you weren't. Where being able to take it was more important than putting on a good front. Where nobody had to worry about using the correct fork.

And now the rules of etiquette are important again. No matter how many medals a man has proving his valor, civilian society will judge him by other standards.
He has to know how to thank a hostess for a boring evening without letting her know he was bored. He has to remember to light a woman's cigarette and not flick ashes on the rug. He has to know whose name to put first in an introduction. In short, he has got to please.

No wonder the veterans feel confused. No wonder they want a strict course in etiquette that will teach them all the rules.

The Ways of Peace
For a long time it has been enough for them to be men. Now they have to be gentlemen. And if they are to get ahead in civilian life what they appear to be will, perhaps, be even more important than what they are.

It is a little sad, isn't it? To picture a group of men long used to considering only the fundamentals of life, how to keep warm, how to stay whole, etc., listening intently while a dean of women drills them on such matters as how to balance a plate at a buffet supper and what to do about a finger bowl.

British Women
Get Miniature
Fashion Treat

By FLORA LEWIS
AP Newsfeatures
London—Tweedy, roughly-shod London women whose clothes coupons provide for about one new dress a year have a new pastime.

It's to stand in dewy-eyed wonder before a display of Parisian wire-puppets, gowned in the newest Paris styles.
The display may go to America as soon as the thousands of English women flocking to this new type fashion show have had their fill of delight.

About 20 inches high, the little manikins show off every aspect of fashions decreed by France. They've stitched leather pocket-books with shoulder straps, long, gathered silken gloves and intricate high-swept collars.

Even the shoes are precise miniatures of the brightly colored, high laced wedges (made with cork or wood) that click down the Champs Elysees. From the garters—a reproduction of the inside of the opera house, "the enchanted grotto"—to the dresses, it is a fairy-tale show.

Most of the clothes, even gaily flowered garden prints and red and black checked morning suits, have the huge sleeves, wasp-waists and enormous, flowing skirts of the Gibson girl.

The materials, especially for evening clothes, are luxurious—heavy brocades, smooth satin with Croix de Lorraine water-marks, crepes rich with pearl, sequin and delicately applied beaded.

It's clear from the display—which represents Paris' top designers—that liberated French women are going romantic and frou-frou. From the enormous quantities of oohs and ahs, it's just as clear that war-weary British women are ready to follow suit.

Give Teen-Ager A
Real Sewing Job

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
You will be doing a great service to your teen-ager daughter if you give her a real sewing job to do occasionally. While she may be able to mend and do some simple darning she'll have more fun creating something that reflects the effort put into it.

Though you never may have entertained the idea that your teen-ager daughter could make a pair of drapes or curtains for her room, she can. All she needs to know for this job is how to hem.

If the material is plain, it can be used right off the bolt by hemming both edges about two inches on each side. Tack folds every few inches. When some rings are added on top, your drapes are all set for the drape-rod. A good heavy fabric needn't be lined. But if it needs lining you can show her the simplest way—sewing the lining to the fabric before the edges are hemmed.

A simple sewing trick for the beginner is the hand-rolled handkerchief. Lots of these can be made out of linen squares and if daughter really enjoys sewing she can initial the handkerchiefs in pencil and then embroider them.

ANTI-MALARIA BATTLE GAINS

Hope For Better Than Atabrine Suppressive In Near Future

By JANE STAFFORD Washington, (SS)—The war secret told here today of the development of two new and powerful drugs against malaria reveals at the same time a triumph of American chemists.

Better than atabrine, much better than quinine is the synthetic chemical SN 7618 they created and sent to the Board for the Coordination of Malarial Studies for testing in April, 1944. This 7618th of the 14,000 substances tested for anti-malarial activity turned out a winner.

As a suppressive, for holding the sickness of malaria at bay even though the parasites have invaded the body, SN 7618 needs to be taken only once a week, compared to the daily dose needed when atabrine is used for the same purpose. Atabrine, SN 7618 stops an attack of malaria in 24 hours, while atabrine takes four to six days to bring about recovery.

No yellowing of the skin goes with taking the white pills of SN 7618. It does not cause stomach and intestinal upsets. Its manufacturing cost is about the same as that of atabrine.

Chemically, this new antimalarial is a member of the 4-aminoquinoline series. German chemists at the I. G. Farbenindustrie plant at Elberfeld had previously, and unknown to American chemists, made 4-aminoquinolines as possible anti-malarials and they even had made and patented SN 7618 itself. 7-chloro-4-diethylamino-1-methylbutylamine quinine. But they discarded it as no good.

The triumph of American chemists consisted in recognizing its value and, even more, in developing a new method for synthesizing one of the intermediate chemicals needed to create SN 7618. Without this new method, SN 7618 could never have been made on a commercial scale, as it now can be.

Whether SN 7618 will ever be put on the market seems a little doubtful because other, even better antimalarial chemicals are in the works. One of these, an 8-aminoquinoline, shows promise of being a real cure for vivax malaria. Of three kinds of malaria, this one is most common in the United States and caused most trouble among our forces in the South Pacific.

Atabrine and SN 7618 cure falciparum malaria, a less common but more often fatal kind, actually removing the infection. They do not cure vivax malaria but merely stop each attack of chills and fever. The parasites are still in the body and can cause further attacks, or relapses.

Plasmochin, an 8-aminoquinoline developed in 1930, cures vivax malaria, but the dose for a cure is too close in size to the dose that causes poisoning symptoms. A safer chemical of this type, with a egrater "spread" between curative and poisonous doses, has been developed and tested in patients. For 100 days the patients have gone without relapse of their malaria. If they do not have any relapses during the next 250 days, the scientists will feel sure this latest chemical is the long-sought cure for vivax malaria.

Development of these two new antimalarials, announced today in the scientific journal, Science, was only a part of the work carried on in universities, government agencies and commercial firms by scientists whose efforts were coordinated by the Board for the Coordination of Malarial Studies.

Savings And Demand For Goods Can Make Big Year

By S. BURTON HEATH NEA Staff Correspondent

There is every reason why 1946 should be one of the best years in American history. But, unfortunately, there also are some reasons why the coming year could plunge this nation into the deepest, darkest economic depression of all times.

The best reason for assuming that we shall enjoy a twelvemonth of reasonable prosperity, rather than of joblessness and despair, is the fact that many of those in positions of authority see clearly the pitfalls that we face.

We have a right to hope that some, at least, will heed the danger signals, and will place the general welfare ahead of personal, class and partisan desires.

Major factors that should contribute to a year of unprecedented prosperity for everybody who is willing to do his bit can be summarized as follows:

1. Never in history have so many people ardently desired so many commodities beyond the fundamentals of existence.

2. Never have so many people, almost universally, had so much money waiting to be spent for the things they want.

3. Never has any nation possessed so vast a plant for the production of the things that people want to buy, and are able to pay for.

4. Never has there been so great a reservoir of skilled and semi-skilled labor available for the manning of production facilities.

5. Never has the scale of wages, for payment of the men and women who do the actual work, been so generous.

6. Most raw materials necessary for taking advantage of this situation are available in at least moderate quantities, and the facilities for processing them, from crude form to usable sheets and bars and extrusions and the like, are more than ample.

Finer Foods Wanted

For a time, at least, we shall want unusual quantities of the finer foods that were scarce during the war. We shall want to replace the radios, the automobiles, the washing machines, the refrigerators, the toasters, the flatirons, the lawn mowers, the buses, the railroad cars, the furniture, the shoes, the suits and dresses, the cameras and projectors—all the things that have worn out.

Millions who were struggling along on a pittance or less in 1940, and who enjoyed substantial incomes during the war, want to buy those conveniences and luxuries and labor-savers that they never did have, or to substitute modern versions for the makeshift and antiquities with which they were getting by.

There are some almost brand new items—though many less than some of us had hoped—born out of the war or brought by wartime experience to the point of usefulness. Television is well along; frequency modulation is technically ready to go; the personal plane and the helicopter are practicable; walkie-talkie radios and jeep ambulances are ready to go.

Ten million homes are needed in the next 10 years, and if there were materials and workmen at least three millions of them are really needed in the coming year. Half a million is the goal for 1946 but only because that is all that it is supposed to be constructed.

With such a demand, such an accumulation of spending money, such enormous factory capacity, there should be no unemployment. Everybody willing to work should have a job at good wages.

Moreover, reconversion from war production to the manufacture of civilian commodities goes a fine start, and the postwar economy was well under way with less temporary unemployment than has been anticipated even by the optimists.

That is the bright side. Against it are the definite hazards and the imperfections that they create.

Strikes Create Problem

The current strike against General Motors and the pending steel strike are only the most spectacular episodes in a wave of readjustment that is slowing down the place of the artificial and unsound production of prosperity that was produced by heavy war demands.

Without expressing opinion as to the justification for the attitudes of either Labor or Management, the almost inevitable effect of prolonged strike conditions can be pointed out.

Savings And Demand For Goods Can Make Big Year

The steel strike scheduled for January 14, if it continues long, will throw out of work a minimum of two out of every five employed in manufacturing, and then will affect all who, in service and commercial and professional lines, depend upon the strike-bound factory workers.

The longer the strikers, and those thrown out of work by the indirect effects of strikes, are off the job, the more of the wartime savings must be spent for bread and butter, shoes and trousers, rent and electricity. The less they will have left to pay for automobiles, refrigerators, radios, new clothes.

If having spent their savings to survive during strikes, the workers cannot buy the products of industry, then industry will lose top speed. Unemployment from lack of orders will replace joblessness from strikes.

Industry Can Hold Out

Industry, according to studies, is in an excellent position to hold out against union demands. Not only are there this year's excess profits that Uncle Sam would take anyway, in large part, but there are tax law clauses by which much less next year could be absorbed.

It is entirely possible for the present and pending controversies to continue until the effective pent-up demand is dissipated. With it would go all of the factors that, if given an opportunity, could create an era of wonderful prosperity.

If that happened, it would do neither labor nor industry any good to have had the capital with which to finance a prolonged wage war.

IF is the key to any attempt to make a sound prognosis of the coming year.

IF the completion of reconversion is not delayed too long, 1946 should be a year to which we would look back with pride and affection.

IF reconversion is held up until savings are exhausted, 1946 may rank with 1929 as the beginning of a terrible headache.

Device Keeps Chess Moves For Posterity

BY GENE COLLECT AP Newsfeatures

Hazleton, Pa.—And now we have proof a new age has arrived: science has come to the aid of chess players.

Science arrived in the person of genial Arthur W. Fey, 53-year-old wholesale merchant of 129 West Juniper Street, Hazleton, who has invented a device which combines his two hobbies—chess and mechanics—a self-recording chess table.

The device, when in use, looks like an ordinary inlaid chess table and is, except that mechanism under the board records each move in algebraic chess notation.

The chess recorder operates with small inconvenience to the player. He needs give only a slight pressure with the moving piece on two squares—the one from which and to which it moves—and the play is indelibly recorded on a tape, similar to those used in adding machines and cash registers.

Many ideas had to be discarded and replaced with better ones in the year and a half I worked on it," asserted Fey. "I had some trouble finding the time, too, because my war work and my business took up most of my days."

The recording table, designed for use in tournament play where and by students who wish to check their play for improvement, is Fey's second chess invention.

His first and more modest was a "speed chess" clock which rings a bell every 10 seconds. This was for use by "speed" or "rapid transit" players who move every 10 seconds. A national tournament for such players is held each year in New York City.

Normal annual consumption of iron ore in the United States is about 50 million gross tons.

Tri-Lingual Gauntlet

Some civilian passengers, whose papers are beyond any suspicion, manage to travel the Express but French and Allied military personnel chiefly are passengers. Armed with a French military travel order and a three-language passport permit, they run a gauntlet of Russian, American, French, and Swiss check point guards as the train passes from one country or from one occupation zone to another.

For military personnel the trip costs $27.00 with ration tickets, allowing a meal during transit in Switzerland, included.

A diner, with a store of white bread, wine, fish and meat, was hooked on for the entire trip on a recent Vienna-Paris run.

Two-person sleeping compartments made up several cars of the train. But you had to take your chances. Tickets were sold over the travel agency counter in Vienna strictly on a basis of first come, first served. No eyebrows were raised—maybe they never were in Europe—at mixing of the sexes on the Orient Express.

Boursaw was arrested Thursday by city police and Michigan state police at his home at Indian Point, near Nahma.

The accident in which Boursaw was involved occurred last Saturday night when an auto he was driving struck two parked cars on the Buckeye hill at the foot of North Ninth street.

Boursaw continued on his way without stopping to see what damage he had caused to the two autos.

They Aren't Worse Than Some Guests

Baltimore—(AP)—If you insist, you may take your pet monkey to dine in any Baltimore restaurant, at least as far as the city's police are concerned.

A guest tried it the other day on James Webster, Baltimore restaurant owner, who complained to police that the monkey, after devouring part of his master's sandwich, jumped on a waitress and began to nibble her arm.

However, all that police could do for him was to inform him that they knew of no legal barriers to simian dinner guests.

London—(AP)—Holland is to purchase a whaling fleet of six vessels from the United Kingdom. A Swedish tanker will also be bought for conversion to a factory ship. The fleet will be operated by a government-supported company with a capital of about (pounds) 1,100,000 ($4,400,000).

Ensign Ron Murray Commanding Mine Sweeper Off Japan

Ensign Ronald Murray, formerly of Gladstone, writes his parents from Wakayama, Japan, that he is now commanding a U. S. Naval mine-sweeper in Japanese waters. The major portion of his letter follows:

"Since last writing to you we have had another change in command. Now I am the commanding officer of the YMS 323. Seems funny to have the other officers and members of the crew call me captain. There is an immense amount of responsibility now and I get the chills when I think of it.

"This will be my second Christmas in the Pacific. We had all hoped we would be home by this time but it looks like it will be springtime before we get back. This is supposed to be the last operation, but they have told us that before and the plans fell through. We start to sweep from Wakayama to Kobe and Osaka tomorrow. The operation is supposed to take six weeks, which means that we should finish out here the latter part of January.

"By this time, good old winter weather has probably 'set in' at Gladstone. Surely would like to see and feel it. We have had fairly miserable weather. The temperature is in the 40s, but is damp and surely feels colder. I did get a chance to go ashore the other day and this place is similar to the other places I've been (dirty, cheap and stinking). I surely can't warm-up to seeing Japs — they are just too darn slimy.

"Well, guess this is it. Hope you are both well and enjoying life as much as possible. Maybe it won't be too long before we get those orders to return to the U. S. A."

Will Further Carnival Plans

Plans for Gladstone's annual Winter Sports Carnival will be furthered at a meeting of chairmen and members of various committees Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, according to Gale Wescott, general chairman.

Dates for the carnival are Jan. 31-Feb. 3.

Supervision of the event is again being handled by the Gladstone recreation board. Assisting and assuming charge of certain activities are the Gladstone Ski club, the American Legion, Girl Scouts and Lions club.

Girl Scouts are putting on ice skating specialties at the ice carnival and Miss Jean Groos, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harold Q. Groos, Escanaba, will instruct the girls.

The first session will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the playground rink and all girls desiring to participate should be at the rink at that time.

From 1916 to 1942, tornadoes caused more than $330,000,000 property loss, and killed more than 6,600 persons.

PACKERS SET GATE RECORD

Over Half Million Grid
Fans Saw Bays In Action In '45

Green Bay, Wis.—The Packers broke all football attendance records during the 1945 gridiron season with a total gate of $23,444 for 14 games.

Coach E. L. Lambeau's team sure did "pack 'em in" all around the National League circuit after performing before immense throngs in the pre-season contests.

The colorful Packers have been known for drawing crowds for many years but the turnout this past fall made dreams about the half-million season gate come true.

With the exception of Detroit (Dec. 2), the Packers drew the best crowds at every city in which they played around the postgraduate gridiron wheel while at home two or three contests were sell-outs.

92,753 In Chicago

The Lambeau of Green Bay played before 162,951 in the first two games of the pre-season schedule. The All-Star classic in Chicago attracted 92,753 and the engagement at Philadelphia drew a 90,218 house. Playing against Pittsburgh at Hershey, Pa., the Bays put 14,521 in the park and then went to Washington where a crowd of 27,125 greeted the Bays.

The Packers opened the league season at home with a 24,325 throng for the Bears game. Tickets for the games were sold out two weeks in advance. The next Sunday at Milwaukee against Detroit, there was another capacity crowd of 25,500. The following week at Green Bay (Oct. 14), Cleveland jammed City stadium with 24,607 football fans.

In another game at Milwaukee the Packers faced Boston on a wet day, yet some 20,846 fans poured into the park. The Chicago Cardinal encounter at Green Bay drew 19,921. This was the best gate the Windy City Redbirds ever drew in Packertown.

Boston Record Set

The Bays had a turnstile count of 45,527 against the Bears in Chicago and 28,656 for the Rams in Cleveland. The Packers had a 33,748 turnout in Boston, which set an all-time postgraduate gridiron attendance mark in Beantown.

Lambeau and company jammed the Polo Grounds in New York with a 52,031 "bulge" when they rubbed elbows with the Giants on Nov. 25. The game with the Lions in Detroit had a paid gate of 23,436 despite chilly wintry blasts.

Figures for the season follow:

Famed Tulsa Coach Signed By Tulane

New Orleans, Jan. 4 (AP)—Henry Frnka of Tulsa university today was named head coach at Tulane university, succeeding Claude "Little Monk" Simmons.

Horace Renegar, head of the division of public relations and Tulane's athletic chief, said that Frnka will take over the post February 1, and will name his own assistants.

In five years at Tulsa, Frnka has won the Missouri Valley conference championship three times, and has taken his team to a bowl game in each of the five years.

Tulsa, under Frnka, played in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Texas, in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, once in the Orange Bowl at Miami, and lost Tuesday to Georgia in the Oil Bowl at Houston, Tex.

Earlier today, Renegar announced that Simmons, a former Tulane football hero, voluntarily had relinquished the coaching post to become director of athletics.

If newspapers didn't call attention to them, a majority of eclipses of the sun and moon would pass unnoticed.

Bonura Has Good Background For Minneapolis Job

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, (AP)—It is doubtful if anyone ever took over a job as baseball manager with more good wishes in his wake than Zeke Bonura, who made his debut in this year as pilot of the Minneapolis club of the American association.

The big, strong-armed New Orleans Banana Man always was popular with fellow players and fans as a player, and his work in sports organizations in Africa while in the army won him additional respect, as well as a Legion of Merit medal. It is fitting that he be given a job in which he can continue to exercise his executive ability.

* Zeke took more than his share of ribbing during his wanderings as a first baseman, chiefly because he admitted was no Fanny Dan out there. It was a case of "They laughed when he sat down to catch a pop foul; but they didn't laugh when he stepped to the plate."

Always Enthusiastic

He could hit a ball six miles, and was consistently above .300. His fielding lapses, real or imagined by the fans, were more or less offset by an effervescent spirit which made him a one-man cheering section when things weren't going so well for his team.

We'll always carry the mental picture of the big guy galloping over the mound, his arms raised in a resounding gesture. It mattered not if he was the ninth inning and his team was 15 runs behind. Zeke's enthusiasm never wavered. He'd hand the ball gently to the weary chucker, but him tenderly on the back, then prance back to his position. If ever a player fairly bubbled out there, it was Zeke.

Oddly enough his official fielding average was good, and it was the general idea his errors were those of omission rather than commission. At any rate, his fielding was a sensitive subject with Zeke, although he was more hurt by criticism than angered.

It wasn't long after Zeke had gone to Africa that reports began to dribble back of the tremendous job he was doing with the recreation program, but the first real report on his activities came from Al Schacht, the one-man burlesque show. That is, Al traveled alone to entertain the service men with his hilarious clown act.

Al had no sooner landed in Africa than Zeke took personal charge of him, and from Al's description, it really was personal charge. If Zeke told Al he was to squat behind the pilot of a Cub plane for a trip to a hospital behind in the mountains, Al squatted behind the pilot. If Zeke said the boys at some lonely outpost wanted to see Al, Al went to the lonely outpost.

It was just a sample of the tremendous energy "Bananas" exhibited through his stay there. He had everyone within 100 miles of Oran throwing baseballs, with even the Arabs trying their hand at the game.

Who has a hunch the big guy will do quite all right as manager, as anyone who has been organizing leagues for several years shouldn't have much trouble organizing one team.

There's one thing we'd like to see, though. We'd like to see Zeke trying to teach a rookie some of those fancy steps around first base. Instruction in the Banana split, you might say.

Giant Killer Illini Take On Michigan

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 4 (AP)—University of Michigan's basketball team, still trying for its initial Big Ten victory after bowing to Indiana and Ohio State, takes on Illinois' giant killers here Saturday.

Illinois, which lost its first two conference starts to Ohio State and Iowa, bounced back last week to hand mighty DePaul its first licking in the year's biggest upset.

Since trimming DePaul the Illini sufficed Wisconsin and will be seeking their second conference decision here.

A year ago the Wolverines broke even in two tilts with the Illini.

Coach Bennie Oosterbaan of Michigan indicated that Bob Harrison and Dave Strack would start at forward against Illinois with Glen Seibo at center and John Mullaney and Pete Elliott at guard. Illinois is expected to use the high-scoring Bob Doster with Walter Mroz at forward along with center Bob Rowe and guards Jack Burmaster and Jim Syler.

Michigan moves to East Lansing Monday to tackle Michigan State for the second time this season.

College Coaches Leaving Service

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Another phase of the war is coming to an end this month with civilian athletic leaders writing "assignment completed" to their part in setting up world-wide sports programs for the armed forces.

Col. Henry W. "Eskie" Clark, head of athletics for special services, said that officers and enlisted men would carry out the Army's far-flung games.

Foremost college coaches and professional athletes trained approximately 11,000 army men in special schools in Europe and the Pacific to act as instructors.

A transcontinental bus company has applied for permission to operate a helicopter bus service over a network of 60,000 miles. Helis would carry 14 passengers.

NOTED JOCKEY FATALLY HURT

Georgie Woolf Earned
$200,000 In Dozen
Years Of Racing

Pasadena, Calif., Jan. 4 (AP)—Georgie Woolf (The Ice Man) Woolf, who earned at least $200,000 in a dozen years of riding stake winners, died today from a fall at Santa Anita Park yesterday in a $3,500 non-handicap race.

Woolf, who at 36 had nearly 20 years of riding behind him, succumbed about 12 hours after he was pitched to the track by Please Me of the W. W. Naylor stable. The jockey never regained consciousness.

One of the turf's most affluent jockeys and a "big-timer" since 1933, Woolf for several years had carefully picked his spots and stables.

He led stakes winners with $341,680 in 1942 and $338,135 in 14 races in 1944. In 17 stakes in 1945, he won $209,000.

Woolf owned a restaurant and bar in Arcadia near Santa Anita where he made his home for the past several years. He was born in Cardston, Alberta. His wife, Genevieve, was at his bedside when he died.

Woolf rose from the small tracks of his native Canada and Montana to stakes prominence at Tijuana and Caliente. His first big victory was the 1933 Caliente handicap aboard Gallant Sir. The horse which always remained in the ice man's heart was Charles S. Howard's immortal Seabiscuit. The race which Woolf regarded as "my most satisfying ride"—was the 1938 Pimlico Special in which the "Biscuit" whipped the highly-favored War Admiral from wire to wire.

Top Hitter Cooch Given Release By Chicago White Sox

Chicago, Jan. 4 (AP)—Third Baseman Tony Cuccinello, who was nosed out of the American league batting championship on the closing days of the 1945 season, today was given his unconditional release by the Chicago White Sox.

Cuccinello, 37-year-old veteran of 15 major league seasons, was released apparently in a move by the White Sox to rebuild with younger talent ahead. General Manager Les O'Connor said "Cooch" had desired to land a managerial post in the minor leagues.

Cuccinello led the batting race most of the season, but finished one percentage point behind Second Baseman George Stinewess of New York, whose last-day hitting spree gave him a final .309 mark.

Cigar-smoking Tony, played with Cincinnati, Brooklyn, New York and Boston in the National league before coming to the White Sox in 1943 after his release by the Braves. He started his professional career with Syracuse in the International league in 1926 and crashed the majors with Cincinnati in 1930.

Spartan Quintet Seeking Revenge

East Lansing, Jan. 4 (AP)—Revenge will be on the minds of Michigan State college's basketball players Saturday night when they take the floor against the Cincinnati university quintet in Jenison fieldhouse.

Last season, the Bearcats walked off with 39-37 and 54-50 victories. Coach Ben Van Alstyne's Spartans will also be trying to hit the .500 mark for the season. They have won two and lost three games so far.

Cincinnati will floor the tallest team M. S. C. has met this year. Four of the Bearcats' starting five top the six foot mark.

Van Alstyne indicated he would start his regular lineup of Sam Fortino and Robin Roberts at forwards, Matt Mazza at center and Ollie White and Don Waldron at guards.

Sports Park Closed By Thawing Weather

Lansing, Jan. 4 (AP)—Warm, thawing weather throughout the week has forced the closing of the Grayling Winter Sport's Park for this week-end, the State Conservation Department announced today.

The department reported "fair-sized" crowds had attended the opening of the park last week-end despite poor weather conditions.

Attendance Saturday was about 1,000 while 1,700 persons visited the park Sunday and 1,400 Monday and Tuesday.

Pingel Promoted To Lieut. Colonel

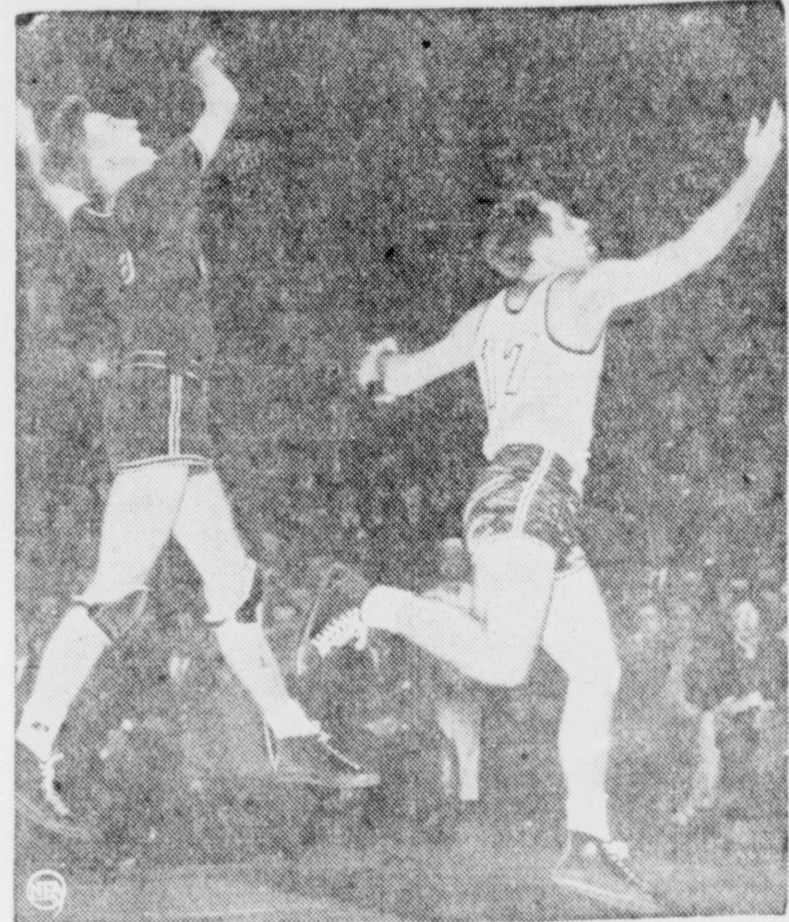

East Lansing, Jan. 4 (AP)—Assistant Football Coach John S. Pingel of Michigan State college, on terminal leave from the Army, has received a promotion to the rank of lieutenant colonel.

ONE FOR BEAU JACK

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Bouncing Beau Jack made a surprise switch from a wear-them-down puncher to a savage slugger to-night and flattened Morris Reif, an outgunned Brooklyn better, in four rounds in Madison Square Garden. Jack weighed 143½; Reif 146½.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

All-American Grid Loop Starts With 8 Clubs

Chicago, Jan. 4 (AP)—The All-American conference today voted to start operations in 1946 with an eight-club league, playing a 14-game schedule on a home-and-home basis.

The new league, opening a three-day organizational meeting, deferred acceptance of a 10th entry and Baltimore agreed to table its franchise for the inaugural season.

Commissioner James H. (Sleepy) Crowley explained that the Baltimore owners completed negotiations for the city's municipal stadium at a late date and among the nine clubs were the least advanced in organizational plans.

The league which will attempt to become a second major professional league in competition with the long-established National football league will open with New York, Brooklyn, Chicago, Los Angeles, Buffalo, Miami, San Francisco and Cleveland as charter members.

Crowley said membership bids by New Orleans and Kansas City had been studied at the opening session, but that the league had decided to postpone plans for a 10 team membership until 1947.

He has received a personal letter of commendation for his "ability, zeal, resourcefulness, loyalty, and devotion to duty as instructor of mathematics," from Brigadier General G. M. Thiele, commanding officer of the famous G. I. institution.

ASSEMBLY LINE MAIL

Clefield, Utah—(AP)—Mrs. Myron E. Holman, a stenciler at the Clefield naval supply depot, exclaimed when a box rolled down the conveyor line for shipment to the U. S. S. Richmond:

"Why, here's a box going to my son's ship."

She wrote her name on the frame of the box and more than a month later received a letter from her son, Leonard, together with the portion of the box carrying her name. The son said a shipmate pointed out the box to him while the Richmond was off the Kurile Islands.

SLIGHT RALLY IN STOCK MART

BY VICTOR EUBANK

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Selected rails and industrials negotiated a timid rally in today's stock market although many leaders failed to climb out of the losing column and dealings were relatively sluggish.

Improved tendencies appeared after an irregularly lower opening with car-trails favored.

Holding dropped up on the idea that the list might be hovering around a temporary bottom. Demand was unconvincing, however, and accounts again were lightened because of spreading strikes and thoughts of an extended technical correction. President Truman's broadcast provided some purchasing stimulation.

Associated Press 40-stock composite was unchanged at 74.6. Of 907 issues registering, 373 advanced, 337 declined and 152 were all even.

Ahead fractions to a point or so were Chicago & Eastern Illinois common and "A", the former of a 1945 high, Canadian Pacific, also at a new low. Chicago Great Western common and preferred, Southern Railway, Distillers Corp., American Telephone, Western Union, "A", Worth, Montgomery Ward, Hudson Motors, Allied Chemical, Standard Oil (N.J.), Anacosta and Kennecott.

Schenley dropped 2½ and lesser stumbles were suffered by U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Goodrich, International Harvester, Boeing, American Water Works, Consolidated Edison, General Electric, Great Northern, N. Y. Central and Du Pont.

RAIL ISSUES UP

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—The bond market was higher today with railroad issues gaining from fractions to more than two points. Long term U. S. government bonds were firm, reflecting strong demand for investment bonds.

Among carriers advancing were Erie 1-3/8 of 36, up 2; Chicago & Eastern Illinois Incomes of 97, up 2½; and St. Louis-San Francisco 5½ of 50 "B" certified, up 2 1-2. Stocks showing improvement included Illinois Central 4½ of 52, Chicago Great Western 4½, Central of Georgia consolidated, 2½, and some New York Central, Northern Pacific and Morris & Essex lines.

Declining were St. Louis Southwestern second, Union Pacific 48, El Paso & Southwest 5½ and some Baltimore & Ohio and Missouri & Pacific issues.

In utilities Central New York Power 3½, Ohio Edison 3½, Philadelphia Electric 2 3-4 and International Hydro-Electric 4½ were among those advancing, while New York Edison 3½ and Brooklyn Union Gas 6½ dropped off.

Crowley said membership bids by New Orleans and Kansas City had been studied at the opening session, but that the league had decided to postpone plans for a 10 team membership until 1947.

The score by periods:
Gwinn 6 13 15 5-39
Newberry 9 11 15 3-38
Dick Schram of Escanaba officiated.

A survey of Boston girls' handbags revealed that most of them contained 30 to 45 articles.

Kansas is called the "Sunflower State," but sunflowers thrive in states from Minnesota to Texas, and west to the Pacific.

Army Makes Milk Drinkers, Not Sops

BY TEX EASLEY
AP Newstunes
Washington—Life in the army, according to Texas dairy official, has made milk drinkers out of a lot of soldiers.

That's the word of Bryan Blacklock of Marshall, president of the Texas Dairy Products Institute, who spoke here at an international meeting of ice cream dealers. To prove his statement, he told how Texas farmers cooperated to supply the demand in the war.

"Every time one of these big army camps was located in a Texas town or city," he recalled, "there arose the immediate and tremendous problem of getting in sufficient milk. It was the first time Uncle Sam had ever attempted to supply fresh milk daily to the boys in a big army training center."

Farmers throughout the surrounding countryside were contacted and signed up to produce milk. Many had only a cow or two, or none at all. Through War Department help, the financial problem was overcome and we got them producing cows and the farmers soon were filling the orders. Checkups have shown that thousands of boys, even some who came from farms, had not been used to drinking milk out soon formed the habit."

Blacklock, a brother of Texas Democratic National Committee man, Myron Blacklock, said that in 15 years Texas has moved up from 25th state to 8th in the value of dairy products. Dairying is now a $100 million industry in the state. To meet the labor shortage, farmers turned more and more to mechanical equipment. Blacklock estimated a 50 percent increase in the number of milking machines used in Texas since the outbreak of war.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Pvt. Ailing I. Norman, of Co. A, 41st Armored Inf., who made the supreme sacrifice in Belgium one year ago today, on January 5, 1945.

A silent thought, a secret tear. Keeps his memory ever dear. Time may take away the edge of grief, But memory turns back every leaf.

Sadly missed by his

In loving memory of our dear husband, son and brother, Donald Pratt, who was drowned two years ago today, January 5, 1944.

Remembrance is a golden chain. That binds us till we meet again; To have, to love and then to part Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.

The years may wipe out many things, But this they wipe out never, The memory of those happy days When we were all together.
